E5527 2008a OCLC Number: (OCoLC)430180369 Subject: Geological carbon sequestration -- Environmental aspects -- United States. Excerpt: . . . 9 This hearing is an important hearing, Mr. Chairman. Many members of the full committee have joined the subcommittee Chairman, Mr. Rick Boucher, of the Energy and Air Quality Subcommittee, myself included, in sponsoring bills - a bill to develop the technology for carbon capture, carbon conversion and storage. Ultimately we want to see this concept become an option in the en-ergy mix for the United States of America, but first we have got to understand all the facts of the issue. In resolving one environmental issue, we need to make sure that we are not starting another. The EPA has begun to explore what underground injection of carbon dioxide or CO might mean for un-2 derground sources of drinking water. I want to commend Assistant Administrator Grumbles for getting out ahead on this issue. Let us understand these issues as soon as possible so that as the project developers design their systems...
